Security Awareness: More protection for your company

Increase your employees' safety awareness – protect your company against cyber attacks

Firewalls and virus protection software are no longer sufficient for the prevention of cyber-attacks. A vigilant and well-informed workforce is indispensable when it comes to protecting a company. It is essential for management to ensure their employees are well-informed so that they are capable of recognizing and responding properly to common attacks like phishing. Benefit from our security experts' extensive know-how and increase the safety awareness of your employees.

What is security awareness?

Security awareness involves increasing employees' understanding of IT security issues, especially around cyber security and data protection. Companies need to identify how their staff handle confidential data and how they react to serious threats from the network. Based on these findings, the organisation can determine the necessary protective measures.

A company achieves security awareness primarily through prevention - first and foremost by educating their workforce. To ensure adequate IT security, staff must be fully informed of potential cyber threats and mishandling of sensitive data, as well as how to respond appropriately when encountering a threat.

Get your employees ready!

IT systems are exposed to numerous attacks as cyber criminals are targeting important data more frequently than ever before. One of the biggest hazards in IT security is the human factor – in other words, your own employees. It is all too easy to unknowingly open a threatening e-mail attachment or reveal a password. In doing so, they endanger not only your data and IT systems, but also your commercial success. Only with sufficient awareness can your employees become a security asset, demonstrably reducing your exposure to IT risks.

Unsure about whether or not your company is positioned well enough against these dangers? Educate your employees in a targeted manner. Our trainers raise their awareness in all relevant aspects of IT security.

Always stay one step ahead of attackers!

Take advantage of the Security Awareness Training offered by logineer.

- Get an overview of the hazard potential: Find out which of your employees are vulnerable to which criminal methods.
